

I have rights too. I have the right to not be bothered by unwanted telemarketers. I have the right to not have to purchase special equipment to screen my calls before I answer. I have the right to not have to repeatedly ask callers to remove me from their lists and then have them turn around and call me the next night.

When is the government going to start protecting the individual people's right? The Wisconsin Do-Not-Call list is great. Do not weaken it in any way. Maybe the whole country should benefit from what Wisconsin has done.
